Note this certificate relates only to the work as described above. This certificate does not relate to any work carried out to which the regulations did not apply on this occasion, for example to the existing building not affected by an extension work or the work of repair or the replacement of fittings, etc.

In respect of any work carried out under the 'Competent Person Scheme' (which is a firm that has been adjudged to be sufficiently competent to self certify that its work complies with Building Regulations). The firm must be registered with a scheme that has been approved by the Government. A Competent Person is not required to notify a building control body of its proposals to carry out electrical installation work before it begins.

On completion of any notifiable work it must, however:

Issue the appropriate BS 7671 certification to the person ordering the work. This documentation includes details of the extent of the installation covered, together with a record of the inspection and the results of the testing, and could include an:

Electrical Installations Certificate – intended to be used only for the initial verification of a new installation or for an alteration or addition to an existing installation.
